No folly, no mistake, on the part of the next Bultimore and Chicago Conventions can make one State certain for Mr. Bell.—Lou. Courier.

We do not depend on either the follies or the mistakes of our diversified opponents, though mistakes of our diversified opponents, though doubtless they will commit both. We, how-mistakes of our diversified opponents, though doubtless they will commit both. We, however, have a little to expect from the wisdom and tact of some of them, and much, nearly everything, from the uncorrupted patriotism of the masses of all parties, fired by the cluster of the determine whether Heenun was distinguished our cause, and by the splendid and unequalled fitness of our candidates. In these we put our trust. If on the very threshold of the canvass they do not make not simply one but many States certain for Bell and Everett, we are sadly at fault in our judgment.

Somebody says "the plensure of doing good is the only one that never wears out." Probably this is because it is worn so seldom.

My brethren were not lignorant that I entertain these opinions. They were not ultered in the Assembly, because I was in the clair, and not on the lotor. But they were freely expressed in the Synad of Keniucky, and came into the three poers of the proceedings of that body, whose mind was very clearly and strongly declared to the same effect. Mr. Hale did not think that the last three weeks had been entirely lost. There had been a great deal of good done by adjourning over from time to time, and by the proceedings at Charleston it ill delivered speeches containing sound Republican doctrines when the Republicans could not be permitted to go. Now the Democratic party is bro-ken to pieces, but there was to be an attempt to unite it together again with "Spabling's glue" [laughter] and make it stick. There had been a great deal of good done, but these men doing it adapted to the deficiencies of the Bloodin different diseases. The party numbered some one bundred grown persons and as many children, the sexes being about equally divided. They were comfortably dressed, and apparently in good spirits. Among them were several young wemen, from sixteeu to twenty years of age, who appeared to bo well pleased at the prospect of a journey to Brigham Young's "kingdom." Some of the men carried guns, and all had a liberal allowance of baggage. As the train moved off the party joined in singing a hymn, and departed in excellent spirits.
